BIO/ARTISTS INFO:

Grammy Nominated vocalist Shannon McNally, along with New Orleans musical legend Mac "Dr. John" Rebennack have made a new LP to try and shine a spotlight on Bobby Charles' body of work. Small Town Talk is an album of songs by the great but under-appreciated American songwriter Bobby Charles, which features guest performances by Vince Gill, Derek Trucks from The Allman Brothers Band, Will Sexton and Luther Dickinson.

Everybody knows Bobby Charles through his songs. Charles wrote such instantly recognizable hits as "See You Later Alligator," "Walking to New Orleans" and "But I Do," but the reclusive singer/songwriter, who passed away in 2010, is relatively unknown for his own recordings.

The inspiration for Small Town Talk came from the self titled album Charles recorded in Woodstock with members of The Band, and released by Bearsville Records in tk. McNally's love for that record led her to tell Charles she wanted to revisit it.
